

Reunited After 57 Years

Separated fifty-seven years ago when they were small children by the death of their mother, a sister and brother, Mrs. Robert Eggebrecht of Chicago and Edward G. Shepard, 513 East Fifth street, were reunited here last week for the first time. Following the death of their mother, the two were reared by different families who lost track of one another in succeeding years. It was not until recently that they located one another. Mrs. Eggebrecht left Saturday evening for Chicago after spending a week with the Shepard family here and at their cabin at Big Sandy lake. Her daughter, Ruth, accompanied her.
