Trousers Looted

Four Port Clinton basketball players lost a total of $24 Thursday night while playing at St.
Joseph high school. All four left their billfolds in their trousers in the locker room. When they returned they found the money missing. Steve Lanner lost $18, here and in New York and to greatly expand the paid staff.

The grant proposal that was submitted said the organization would encourage church groups to make investments in business and help form community investment corporations as a means of widening Negro participation in business.

Specialists in business and investment are to be hired to staff the New York office.

Wooten, a Cleveland Browns player and executive director of the group, said the organization is awaiting word from the U.S.
Economic Development Administration on a grant application which would permit expansion into six or seven major cities.

Former Brown fullback Jim Brown, now a movie actor, is founder and president but serves without salary.
